VIVO 2019 Conference

Hilton Hotel
Podgorica, Montenegro
September 4-6, 2019

The 10th annual international VIVO conference brings together a community of scholars, technologists, librarians, practitioners, commercial partners, and decision-makers to promote the representation and discovery of scholarship beyond traditional disciplinary bounds.

VIVO 2019 will provide an open, collegial forum for the exchange of ideas regarding open scholarly data, the semantic technologies and outreach approaches to drive the consumption of that data, and the impact on scholarship and research. The conference is increasingly becoming a premier forum for those interested in researcher profile systems, researcher networking systems, and research information management.

VIVO is:

- open source, not-for-profit, member-supported software that allows researchers to showcase their scholarship, publications, grants, teaching, service, and affiliations in an institutionally-supported system populated with trusted data from a variety of sources.
- a collection of ontologies for representing scholarship that encourages research discovery, expert finding, network analysis and assessment of research impact. VIVO is easily extended to support additional domains of scholarly activity.

- a global community of leaders, researchers, scientists, scholars, administrators, and developers committed to fostering collaboration and expanding knowledge creation beyond departmental and institutional silos.
- linked open data regarding scholarship across disciplines and the world.

Attendees

The VIVO conference draws 100-1500 attendees from around the world, with 9% of attendees coming from outside the United States. Attendance at the 2018 VIVO Conference in Durham, NC, breaks down as follows:

US research university	64%
Corporate	18%
Government research organization	4%
International university	9%
Foundations and non-profit	5%
