VIVO 2020 Online Conference

The 11th Annual international VIVO Online Conference brings together a community of scholars, technologists, librarians, practitioners, commercial partners, and decision-makers to promote the representation and discovery of scholarship beyond traditional disciplinary bounds.

VIVO 2020 will provide an open, collegial online forum for the exchange of ideas regarding open scholarly data, the semantic technologies and outreach approaches to drive the consumption of that data, and the impact on scholarship and research.

VIVO is:

· open source, not-for-profit, member-supported software that allows researchers to showcase their scholarship, publications, grants, teaching, service, and affiliations in an institutionally-supported system populated with trusted data from a variety of sources.

· a collection of ontologies for representing scholarship that encourages research discovery, expert finding, network analysis and assessment of research impact. VIVO is easily extended to support additional domains of scholarly activity.

· a global community of leaders, researchers, scientists, scholars, administrators, and developers committed to fostering collaboration and expanding knowledge creation beyond departmental and institutional silos.

· linked open data regarding scholarship across disciplines and the world
